Float Ship of Every Nation of World, Brilliantly Lighted, Will Be in Line; From Largest Battleship to Smallest Launch.

The happy thought of the man who Red Wing, Cliff, Lacoste, Devine and first saw the connection between the Deep Water Jubilee and the Ships of All Nations deserves much credit, since it is with the idea of represent-Miss Mamie Reicherzer of Lacoste ing all nations that the pageant is

First in the line of march on Tuesday night, Nov. 10, will be the grand Mrs. Herman Bippert and Miss marshal, Captain O. Paget, with his Butts of Riomedina were shopping in attendants. Louis Dallom will act as captain of the outriders of the parade. Attending the grand marshal will be eight men in scale armour, tour aides. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinle, was them will be two launches bearing the solemnized Wednesday, Oct. 14th at admirals, seven in number. These admirals are pure Deep Water Jubilee admirals of the first water and can Church in the presence of many not be duplicated anywhere. Follow-

The first big ship of the parade will be the King's Ship. Seated on a throne half sheltered by an immense Miss Cedalia Wurzbach and Miss shell, King Retaw will rest, attended by Neptune, the god of the sea. Three genuine living mermaids of the Annette Kellermann variety will float languidly in the water that is at the king's feet, and the ship will be, to all intents and purposes, drawn by two immense dolphins. Attending the ship will be a captain in the American navy and two hussars.

The Title Float, a brown stone lighthouse with a real beacon flashing as the lights in it are revolved, will be the second in line. The lights will actually revolve, a device for that purpose having been secured.

"The City of Houston," a modern ocean liner, carrying made-in-Houston goods to all the marts of the world, will be the third feature in line. The cabin lights will show plainly and real smoke will issue from the funnels of the liner.

The French ship will be a modern yacht with all the luxuries of a modern pleasure boat. Lifeboats will hang from the davits and a uniformed officer will have his stand on the quarter-deck or the bridge or wherever a well informed and well uniformed officer should stand.

A Viking ship, manned by six rugged sons of the sea with their emblazoned shields, will appear, breasting the waves in an adventure leading to unknown lands, and in the bow will be seen the stern figure of Olaf Erickson, who first tasted the grapes of the new world and named the country Vinland.

The raven banner will float from the single mast and the figurehead be that of a sea-horse. chip, with one musician added to its crew to play the music that bids the Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grimsinger of oarsmea ever onward, together with San Antonio, Misses Myrtle and 12 Norwegian peasants, three military Frankie Grimsinger of San Antonio, riders and a captain, will form the people in all.

A Chinese junk, with its clumsy sail and its chaborate decoration, will follow the Viking ship. A captain, a helmsman and four sailors will be on the boat, besides a Chinese nobleman. "Germany Extending Her Arms of Commerce to All the World" will be Rihn, Master Earl Grimsinger of San the German contribction to the pageant. The form of a German maiden. extending in her hands a ship, will be seen on a canopied dais. Eight other characters will appear on the ship and 12 peasants with three riders and a captain will accompany it.

Perhaps the most beautiful ship of the whole fleet will be the Swedish ship, representing an Arctic Night, A ship of the far north it is, and the effect given is that the boat is coming through the ice field. An immense iceberg obstructs its passage and on all sides the floating pieces of ice show that it is in frozen waters.

The lighting of the vessel accentuates the apparent coldness of the scene Small lights twinkle along the spars and at the mast tip. Clad in furs the captain, the mate and four sailors work the vessel; 12 peasants will be in attendance with military riders, A ship suggesting the amorous waters of Sunny Italy will be that of the Italian delegation. Designed by a Japanese, T. B. Okasaki, the Japanese ship will be as true to life of a boat of Nippon as will be possible to build under skilled hands. Six armor-clad warriors, a helmsman and a captain will be on the ancieat Grecian galley, which will be propelled both by oars and by a sail. An old time lugger, such as has from the beginning of modern times sailed Russian waters, will be Russia's contribution to the Fleet of All Na-

The "Santa Maria," the flagship of the little fleet commanded by Columbus in October, 1492, when America was rediscovered to the world and opened up for colonization and commerce, will be the Spanish contribution to the pageant.
The "Mayflower," with her Puritan

homeseekers, will represent England. Miles Standish, the Puritan leader; two Puritan women and a Puritan father will complete the passenger list, while four of the crew will be seen.

Another ship showing considerable ingenuity and requiring not a little work will be the Mexican representation, the money for which was raised by the Mexican Colony of Houston. Following the Aztec beat will be the Peace Float, which will be in the form of a great white dove.
"The Alliance," the first flagship of the first American navy, which won renown under the famous Commodore Barry, an Irishman, will be the contribution of the Irish-American Club. The last ship will be the most attractive of all, the battleship Texas. Children Cry for Fletcher's Eletickle the kids but the grown-ups as well, performing ponies and dogs that are clever enough to give a whole evening's entertainment by themselves will also be found in this big Wild feature attraction. Show, where the lions and tigers perform, is an attraction that is always well patronized. Animal life holds a strong appeal to the fancy of the American public. Stories of the jungle are read with avidity, and there is a fascination associated with the adventures of the intrepid hunters who invade the domain of ferocious beasts and capture them for exhibition purposes that makes this form of entertainment ever popular There isn't a question about Americans clamoring for something sensational at all times and one never can tell when the wild beasts are going to forget that they are supposed to play teeter-totter and build pyramids and do various other stunts and try and gain their liberty by pouncing on their trainer and perhaps kill a few of the assistants that rush to the trainer's assistance. It happens nearly every day, still the public clamors for it, and it is Mr. Wortham's desire to please his patrons. Every now and then some showman claims he has the best trained horse in the world; Mr. Wortham also does, and he backs up his statement with the intelligent equine called "Arabia." Miss Essie Fay, who owns this wonderful horse, has just terminated an engagement with the Universal Film company, where Miss Fay and "Arabia" performed before the camera in some of the most thrilling pictures ever filmed. If you have seen the "Perils of Pauline" you have witnessed "Arabia" perform some of his feats. "Arabia" at each and wery performance given in his pavilion res cues a child from a burning build goes to the postoffice, receives the mail and properly distributes it alphabetically, answers the telephone, lects colors as they are called for by the audience: in fact, does anything the audience: in fact, does anyth that any other so-called educated horse has done and then some. "Arthia" has no equal in equipe intelligence and might easily be called the horse with the human brain. There is generally one show that appeals strongly to the feminine sex, and in this instance it is going to be called "Aurora," the performance concalled "Aurora," the performance c and spectacular dances. Besides t very pretty electrical entertainme series of art poses is introduced to are not only clever but original, and have never been seen with any carat-val organization before. The above is only a fair sample of the attractions that will be shown for the first time in Houston during the Deep Water Jubilee, and when co-considers that there are 27 varied at tractions that will be offered, it can be readily understood why Houston is claiming to have a bigger celebration than ever this year.

Without doubt the prettiest spectacle of the No-Tsu-Oh and Deep Water Jubilee, from an artistic viewpoint, will be the flower pageant. This event is expected to attract unusual attention, as it is planned along lines to excel anything of the kind ever much enlarged over former seasons seen in the South. One of the significant features of this gorgeous parade is found in the fact that the myriad of flowers to be used for the event are being manufactured in

Already thousands of dollars have been spent in making the parade the best its kind ever seen in Houston and Clark Cox, under whose direction the ships are being built, ventured the opinion that the coming "Ships of All Nations" parade will eclipse anything ever seen in the South, the famous New Orleans Mardi Gras not excepted And Clark Cox ought to know. for he has staged pageants in nearly every large city in the South.

More is needed than mere money to make success in anything, for without enthusiasm no public entertainment or pageant can be made a wip ner. At least that is the assertion of a man who has had much to do with the success of many affairs similar to the No-Tsu-Oh, and the truth fulness of his assertion is being shown in the Ships of All Nations parade.

Every nationality of people living in Houston felt a responsive chord when it was announced that a representative ship of every great nation would be shown in the parade, and it is due to the striking of this responsive chord that much of the success of the parade preparations is due. many of the nationalities were unable to assist materially with money, their suggestions, in many instances their designs, and their help have been given freely to the committee in charge of the parade.
